

INTRODUCING HANNAH LYON

SPC's Summer Youth Ministry Intern

Howdy!

My name is Hannah Lyon, and I'm from North Carolina.

Unfortunately, my southern accent isn't such that you'd ever hear me say 'howdy,' but I can promise a warm hello when I do get to meet you. I have just arrived in Swarthmore, and am here to serve as your summer youth intern. I am looking forward to getting to know each of you, especially your lovely, talented, and gifted youth! Over the next 10 weeks I will be accompanying the SPC youth on summer trips to Massanetta, Montreat, Appalachia Service Project and Mission Possible. I also get to help lead worship a few times, plan youth group, go to meetings, make visits with Dick and Lisa, and soak up all I can of Swarthmore Presbyterian Church!

To let you know a little about myself, I just graduated from Davidson College where I majored in religion and cheered for the Wildcats. My father is a sports writer turned Presbyterian minister so I guess the combination works for me too. He and my mom live in Pinehurst, NC with our two dogs. I also have an older sister and brother, who are each married with a child. Being an aunt is easily my favorite role to play, which is good because there will be another niece or nephew soon. At Davidson, I wrote my senior thesis on the Confession of 1967 and its theological theme of reconciliation. You can read more about it, and my time at Davidson, in a coming issue of the Presbyterian Outlook!

From here, I will move to Atlanta to take a few courses at Columbia Theological Seminary before heading to Stellenbosch, South Africa in January. I am going to attend the University of Stellenbosch for their one year Masters of Divinity program. After that, who knows!?! I am certain this summer will be one of discernment as I explore my own call to ministry. I want to thank you for the opportunity to serve, and I truly look forward to meeting you soon!

Peace,
Hannah Lyon

We will welcome Hannah this Sunday, June 13, during Fellowship Hour.
